screenings

- Approximately 1 in 5 children have some type of learning difficulty.
- Very often the learning differences are language-based, making reading, writing, and spelling difficult.
- According to the National Center for Learning Disabilities, 48% of parents believe incorrectly that children will outgrow these learning difficulties.

Free!

Screenings are a first step for parents and teachers if they think their child may have a language-based learning disability.

Parents will be sent a follow-up report and recommendations.

Screenings do not provide a specific diagnosis.
